

Dawn of a New Day Memory Care

Eskaton believes in expanding the possibilities of living well with cognitive change, every day. We approach every aspect of care as an opportunity to interact with each individual. Dawn of a New Day focuses on well-being and is unique because of its commitment to:

- Making connections with and among residents by improving relationships
- Embracing daily activities and care as an opportunity to engage and interact
- Partnering with residents and families to support regular communication and collaborative decision making
- Offer opportunities to learn and grow
- Provide educational opportunities for family, residents and staff

Eskaton's Memory Care Academy is a 16-hour educational training program for care partners supporting residents living with cognitive change. Eskaton believes the primary role of each employee is to support and understand the changing needs of residents. The Academy is overseen by Teri Tift, Eskaton's executive director of quality of compliance. Teri's credentials include a master's degree in nursing with a focus on geriatric nursing; a doctorate in health administration and a graduate certificate in gerontology. Dr. Tift is also a part-time professor of gerontology department at California State University, Sacramento.

Dawn of a New Day Memory Care

Residents enjoy the intimacy of private or semi-private rooms, along with the benefits of the social atmosphere of the common living room, dining area, recreation room and courtyards. Social interaction is one of the benefits of community living and residents enjoy the opportunity to experience the world through art, music, gardening, fitness classes, intergenerational programs, and interactions with nature and pets.

Select Eskaton communities also offer Dayspring, a special transitional neighborhood that supports residents who are beginning to experience cognitive change. This unique program offers an adaptive environment that supports the independence of residents as they are living with forgetfulness and changing cognitive abilities.
